

McClellan Says Louis Paid to Attend Trial

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) charged today that former heavyweight champion Joe Louis "was paid $2,500 for sitting in the courtroom two hours" during the bribery-conspiracy trial of Teamster crown prince James R. Hoffa.

Hoffa was acquitted by a jury which included eight Negroes.

Hoffa told the Senate Labor subcommittee, "if he was paid, he was not paid by Hoffa. I know nothing of it."

The committee asked Hoffa to submit a list of expenses paid by the union or Louis, union officials and goons who came to Washington during Hoffa's recent trial on charges that he tried to plant a spy on the committee staff to steal secret documents.

The committee previously brought out that the union paid Louis' hotel bill.

The committee said yesterday that Teamster treasurers have paid $5,150 of a $8,925 bill amassed at the Woodner Hotel here, where Teamster officials stayed during Hoffa's month-long trial.

Louis appeared in the courtroom during the trial and greeted Hoffa, explaining to reporters that the Detroit Teamster leader was an "old friend." Louis started his ring career from Detroit.

The retired "Brown Bomber" owes the government more than one million dollars in income taxes. He turned to professional wrestling for a time to try to pay his debts.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy also asked Hoffa probable next president of the Teamsters, why the union paid a $1,642 hotel bill for former heavyweight fighter Robert (Barney) Baker, the Teamster organizer who arranged Louis' hotel room.

Kennedy said Baker, who now weighs some 300 pounds, was "thrown off the waterfront for his activities in 1934," has a police record for hurling stink bombs and was named by the New York State Crime Commission as a "collector" or an organization in "the public law racket."

Hoffa retorted, "I don't know of anything he has done for the union except constructive activity."

He said, "Barney Baker works for the Central Conference (of Teamsters) under my direct orders. I have authority to assign him here to make a survey, and I have no errands for the attorneys."

Hoffa would not say he assigned Baker to Washington during the trial, but probably gave permission when Baker wanted to come.

The Senate Rackets Committee also heard a 1953 wire-tapped telephone conversation in which Hoffa assured terrorist John D. Hill a clear field in organizing New York taxicab drivers.

Hoffa sat glumly listening to the recording.

The Midwest Teamsters boss had just denied that he had sought through Dio to get a foothold in New York.

The recording made legally by New York police, was of a Hoffa-Dio talk on March 10, 1953. In it, Hoffa said he'd talked "to that Hickey guy."

The names of Royce Weisenberger and Harry Hawthorne were submitted as nominees for president of the club. The election will be held next Tuesday.

Says Military Pay Raises to End the Draft

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said today congressional approval of the new military pay plan proposed by Ralph J. Cordiner would "certainly end the peacetime draft."

Cordiner, president of General Electric Co., testified yesterday that an end of conscription and annual savings of five billion dollars could result from the drastic overhaul of present military pay.

Cordiner headed a special presidential commission which has proposed revising present scales to permit substantial pay increases for technicians and skilled personnel who have been quitting the armed services in large numbers.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.), chairman of an Armed Services subcommittee holding initial public hearings on the proposal, said Defense Department witnesses would be called for detailed testimony later.

Secretary of Defense Wilson said other top administration leaders who originally asked for the study have deferred action on most of it.

Cordiner told the subcommittee a key principle of the proposal would be to pay military men "for what they do and what they know, not for how long they have been around."

Cordiner said the biggest waste now in the multimillion-dollar defense outlays is the rapid loss of trained technicians and junior officers who find better pay and a more attractive life as civilians.

The industrial executive said adoption of the proposal would mean pay increases for about 39 per cent of those now in military careers. He said this would cost an extra 600 million dollars the first year, but would produce savings of more than five billions after four or five years.

Biggest pay hikes would go to top enlisted specialists and to generals, admirals, colonels and

Contractors to Get Pay on Schedule

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Contractors working on Arkansas Highway Department projects may be paid in full during the rest of this year instead of getting partial payments after Sept. 15.

This was announced by the state Highway Commission after a meeting here yesterday.

Commissioners said the financial picture had improved greatly and full contractors' estimates would be paid "until further notice." Another commission meeting to discuss the Highway Department's finances has been set for Sept. 10.

The Highway Commission announced last July 15 that state construction funds were depleted and that the shortage would curtail until further notice the money voted to construction again into this fall.

An August contract letting was cancelled and contractors were notified that they might have to accept partial payments after Aug. 15. Later, the date for ending full payments was extended until Sept. 15.

The commission said the bright financial prospects resulted from a speedup of payments from the Bureau of Public Roads to reimburse the state or work involving federal aid, plus curtailment of maintenance operations.

A request has been made to the BPR for a three-million-dollar revolving fund to further aid the Highway Department's financial situation, the commission said.

The proposed fund would not mean extra money for the state but would mean that the BPR paid it earlier.

No mention of long-range Highway Department problems was made at the meeting.

Highway Director Herbert E. Leebick, 36, of St. Louis, had been appointed director of accounting for the Highway Department at a salary of $9,000 annually. The appointment is effective Sept. 1.

The commission also announced reconstruction of a Frisco railroad underpass at Lake David in Crittenden County as part of a new interstate route between West Memphis and the Missouri line at an estimated cost of $320,000.

Authorized reconstruction of two bridges in Conway County which were washed out by a flash flood Aug. 12, at an estimated cost of $100,000. Both structures are on state Highway 124.

Approved replacement of a smaller bridge in Conway County near Appleton on state Highway 95.

First Asiatic Flu Case in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The first reports of Asiatic flu in Arkansas were received today by the State Board of Health.

Dr. A. M. Washburn, director of the Communicable Disease Control Division, said all of the cases occurred recently at Eudora and that all of the patients had been working in Mississippi or Louisiana where minor outbreaks have been reported.

He said other illnesses of a similar nature have not been diagnosed definitely as Asiatic flu.

Three new cases of polio were reported last week, bringing the state's total for the year to 50 compared to 83 cases reported in the corresponding period of 1956. Last week's list included a paralytic case in Union County and a non-paralytic case in Miller County.

So far this year only 10 paralytic cases have been reported compared to 46 at the corresponding time last year.

Firemen Standby But Alarm False

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Firemen stood by at Adams Field more last night after a Trans-Texas Airways pilot radioed that he thought a fire on his DC-8 carrying 10 passengers and three crewmen had blown out and he might have to make a forced landing. But it was a false alarm and Capt. L. B. Kern put the airliner down safely for the scheduled stop on a Fort Worth-Memphis flight.

Dio Claims Innocent to Tax Evasion

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Dio, a central figure in the Senate inquiry into labor rackets, pleaded innocent in U. S. District Court today to a charge of evading $20,180 in income taxes.

Theodore Ray, described by the prosecution as his bodyguard, also pleaded innocent to evading taxes of $407.

Dio's court session came as James R. Hoffa, a Teamster Union vice president, appeared on the witness stand in Washington before a Senate committee inquiring into his relationship with Dio.

Dio, who has served a prison term for extortion, previously appeared before the committee but pleaded the Fifth Amendment in reply to virtually all questions.

Appearing before Judge William B. Herlands, Dio appeared fidgety as the charge against him was read. The alleged tax evasion was for the years 1950 through 1952.

Herlands scheduled Oct. 7 for the setting of a trial date. Dio, convicted in General Sessions last month of bribery in a labor case, is confined to city prison awaiting sentence on that charge Sept. 5.

The Highway Department might be helped, Cottrell said, if the state treasury would transfer the department's balances to the highway fund as soon as collections are made rather than waiting until the end of the month as at present.

Cottrell said he thought it would be impossible for the department to lose any federal matching money this year and added that it probably would not lose any such aid next year.

The legislator said he thought the Highway Department should get some of the money now diverted from highway revenues to the general fund and to bond reserves.

Chides Ike for Campaigning Prematurely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said today President Eisenhower's political advisers "have got him jumping the gun" on 1958 campaigning by criticizing the Democratic-controlled Congress.

"It looks to me as though some of these advisers are getting frantic about their prospects in next year's congressional election," Johnson said. Control of Congress will be at stake in the balloting then.

Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday he is "tremendously disappointed" because Congress has passed so little of the legislation he recommended.

However, Eisenhower apparently holds Republicans, as well as Democrats, accountable. He said it is a response to a question that everybody who voted against "what I thought was the right thing to do—why they have to share the blame."

Eisenhower said the proposals he sent to Congress comprise a Republican program that he said is aimed at mending the best interests of the country as a whole.

Johnson, Senate Democratic leader, said the record of the Democratic-controlled Congress would speak for itself.

"By the time Congress adjourns he will have given serious consideration to all of the recommendations the President has made," Johnson said. "We will have approved those we think are to the best interests of the country and will have defeated those we think are bad."

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California declined comment. But Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.), who likes to be called a liberal Republican, said in a separate interview he agrees with Eisenhower that the record of Congress is bad.

"We don't know just what we will end up with in regard to foreign aid, but it will not be the right amount," Case said. "We have no school aid bill and nothing that amounts to much in the way of immigration legislation."

Faltering Typhoon Moves Into Siberia

SEOUL (UP) — Typhoon Agnes, with much of its force spent, moved on toward Siberia today after battering the southern tip of Korea.

The storm hit Korea yesterday and left at least 6 persons dead, 11 missing, 2,000 homeless and damages estimated at $600,000.

A U. S. military spokesman said there were no American casualties.

A U. S. Army spokesman at the southern port city of Pusan estimated damage to American ships and other facilities at $200,000.

Lawmaker Sees No Need for Special Session

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Pulaski County legislator who helped make a study of the Arkansas Highway Department's current financial dilemma says he does not think a special session is required to straighten out the situation.

Rep. J. H. Cottrell Jr., also told a club here yesterday that issuing more bonds would simply increase the department's monetary problems.

Cottrell blamed part of the Highway Department's crisis on Act 122 of the 1957 Legislature, in which the bond year was changed from April 1 to July 1.

He said this alteration required the department to spend its first 14 million dollars in revenues on non-construction projects—about nine million dollars for bond service, 2.2½ millions for gasoline tax refunds and about three million dollars for county turnbacks.

Cottrell said that since these commitments are not out of the way until October, the department has no money coming in during July, August and September unless collections exceed 14 million dollars.

"After October," he said, "the revenues will increase and by January the department will have money running out of its ears—but it can't build roads in the winter."

He called this situation the crux of the department's troubles.

The Highway Department might be helped, Cottrell said, if the state treasury would transfer the department's balances to the highway fund as soon as collections are made rather than waiting until the end of the month as at present.

Cottrell said he thought it would be impossible for the department to lose any federal matching money this year and added that it probably would not lose any such aid next year.

The legislator said he thought the Highway Department should get some of the money now diverted from highway revenues to the general fund and to bond reserves.

U. S. Literature Shocks the World

NEW YORK (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says America's taste in literature shocks the world and is "causing doubts on this country's capabilities for world leadership."

Graham told 16,000 persons at Madison Square Garden last night that no American who buys literature like "Confidential" magazine "can point a self-righteous finger at anyone as a nation are guilty."

The magazine now is involved in a libel conspiracy trial on the West Coast.

Graham attacked laws so lenient as to allow "the scandal magazines, the sex magazines and the pornographic literature to be sold in almost every part of the United States."

Hollywood, he said, should not be condemned completely. "It is the few who give the many a bad name," he said.

The evangelist said the real problem is with the millions of Americans who derive a vicarious thrill from indecent literature.

"Where are the prophets of God to speak out against this sort of thing?" he asked.

At the conclusion of the sermon 530 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ."

WASHINGTON (UP) — Those speculating on when Congress will adjourn might be interested in a comment by House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.).

Answering a colleague's classroom question, Martin said: "I wrote my mother I'd be home for Thanksgiving."

Rayburn Hints Demos Willing to Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) said today House Democrats are willing to consider an agreement on the deadlocked civil rights bill based on a new GOP compromise proposal or some other one.

Rayburn said he still hopes for a right-to-vote bill at this session of Congress, but he avoided any commitment to accept a compromise.

The plan put forward yesterday by Republican House Leader Martin of Massachusetts with President Eisenhower's approval was coolly received at first by Democrats.

But Rayburn told a news conference today that he and "my colleagues and those interested in this matter are going to give it serious consideration."

"That doesn't mean we are going to accept it in or to say what parts we might accept," he continued. He said there has not yet been time for discussions leading to any firm decision "about this compromise or another."

He declined to spell out what he might mean by "another."

Republican leaders were said to be inclined to revise their proposal somewhat in an effort to gain Democratic support.

With neither Democratic nor Republican leaders holding to an absolute no yield stand, hopes rose for a possible quick agreement on the measure which has been stalled in the House Rules Committee since Senate passage Aug. 7.

French Star Called in to Testify

By VERNON SCOTT
UP Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Blonde Corrine Calvel was called to court today to "tell the truth" about Confidential magazine's story that she was a "frisky filly" who whispered "out" to the males of Hollywood.

Defense Counsel Arthur Crowley said he is calling the luscious French star for possible appearance on the stand today. She was the subject of the Confidential article now entered as evidence in the trial and titled "you've heard about the birds and the bees but have you heard about Corrine Calvel?"

The story allegedly disclosed the bedroom details of her marriages to Actors John Bromfield and Jeff Stone. It said she had "a love light in her eyes night and day and in the darndest places." The article said she "came close to killing Bromfield with bouclair kindness."

Both men, the article said, had "overdone" Calvel — not the famous French wine but Corrine. Crowley said he will ask Miss Calvel about a local TV show on which she told a TV reporter she was "flattered" by the story and found "nothing in it to sue about."

Thus the trial of the magazine on criminal libel charges was to hear not only more Hollywood sex-captives but also alleged hi-jinks about the popular TV show "64-600 Question."

Crowley scheduled witnesses for the Jay included John Odom, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of Georgia who wrote a Confidential article titled "what happened 24 hours after Hal March asked the $84,000 question nobody could answer."

Studies of rabbits during explosions of small atomic bombs showed that the retinas of their eyes were burned when they were 42 miles away.

Democratic support. There appeared considerable doubt that the two sides would get together, at least for the present, on some formula to get the stalled bill moving toward final passage.

The GOP proposal would give federal judges limited powers to punish for criminal contempt in voting rights cases without a jury trial.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts unveiled the Republican plan yesterday after President Eisenhower has told newsmen it was coming. Eisenhamson, Rt. 4, Hope. Betty Lynn Munn, Hope. Mr. and Mrs. John Crosby, announce the arrival of a baby boy, 8-21-57.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whaley announce the arrival of a baby boy, 8-21-57.

Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson announce the arrival of a baby boy, 8-21-57.

Memorial Admitted: Mrs. Ferrell Baker, Hope, Mrs. Joe H. Raschke, Rt. 1, Hope, Mrs. A. K. Halloway, Hope. Discharged: A. J. Ellis, Rt. 1, Buckner, Mr. J. D. Shaw, Rt. 4, Hope, Mr. Ira Davis, Prescott, Mr. Barney Starkey, Jr., Hope, Joe Dale Harmon, Rt. 1, Emmet.

The GOP proposal would give judges sole discretion to decide whether there should be a jury trial in voting rights cases in which a person is accused of criminal contempt for violating a court injunction.

If the judge tried the case without a jury, he could impose a penalty no stronger than 90 days in jail and a $300 fine. In the event he decided there should be a jury trial the defendant—if convicted—might be imprisoned for as long as six months and fined up to $1,000.

The Democratic leaders, after studying this proposal, were understood to object to it, in part because they feel it would involve prejudgment by a judge of a possible penalty.

The bill, as passed by the Senate, would guarantee jury trials to defendants in criminal contempt cases. This would apply not only to voting rights cases but to cases arising under a wide range of laws. Conviction for criminal contempt would carry a possible penalty of up to six months in jail and up to $1,000 fine.

The House passed a civil rights bill conforming generally to the Eisenhower administration recommendations. It would authorize the attorney general to seek injunctions against violators of civil rights in general. The House bill contains no jury trial amendment, thus permitting a judge to punish violators of injunctions without a jury trial.

CHAPTER XXXIII

The black hump of north ridge grew. Ahead, the creek bed hooked and I knew it was time to pull out. I held up and reined over the bank. Then the gelding ran loose and free on the prairie again and I felt the fire at my heels. The horse still ran strong and I felt good about that. A half mile of grass and then the slope. I looked east and I could see the road where it broke into The Narrows. There was a man there, standing by a horse, far away black spots on the gray. I hoped it was Blanchard, stopped for some reason of his own and giving me a little more time. I thought about heading that way, then decided I wouldn't. It was a long way and maybe it wasn't Blanchard.

I felt the gelding's head drop and I groaned and got ready. A hole, I thought, but then I knew it wasn't. Just the slope and the gelding was pounding up, his head staying down and his neck reaching out and his back hunching. I heard his hard breathing and jerked the reins and got him stopped. I wanted to blow him a little while I took a good look at my back trail, remembering another night ride on the prairie.

It came at me then, all of it, big and ugly. No prairie dog holes to take my mind off it and just a few minutes' time between me and the basin. Cole Jethro's somewhere around in the night. I had a hard, scratchy feeling of being mighty young. A well-worn sprout, scared of the dark.

Near the crest the slope flattened. Then I could see the south ridge against the sky, the line of it at the top bright with moon. Then the basin and the river came under my eyes and I swung east without looking too hard. I pulled up and then held the gelding on the crest.

I'd expected buffaloes across the river. They were there, many bunches of two or three hundred spread over the basin grass, dust stirring in moving clouds where they wallowed, grunting sounds rising and dropping and carrying around the basin as the bulls paved in the night.

I heard men yelling and sharp noises with rolling echoes that had to be guns.

Then, slow the cloud of dust started rolling east along the river. I looked east, hoping to see Blanchard. The Narrows hung in deep shadow and I couldn't see into it. I decided I'd have to take a chance and head into The Narrows, hoping to find him in the dark. An nobody else.

Then I saw the patch of black on the prairie close to the line of shadow from The Narrows on the near side of the river. A rock outcrop, I thought at first. But I knew that place. Not on the flat so close to the river. A man then, maybe a dead one.

I thought of Blanchard and groaned, thinking it was too late. I turned and looked west. The dust cloud rolled faster and the sound was stronger with a rumble of it now coming up through the sod to me. I could see the bobbing of some buffaloes in the lead of the bunch, running hard with heads down. I couldn't see riders

Would Wipe Out Bans for Poland Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) today proposed legislation to wipe out current restrictions against United States aid to Poland and other eastern European satellites where such aid may help promote U. S. interests.

Kennedy, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, offered his proposal in a speech prepared for Senate delivery.

He said the agreement last June for 95 million dollars in American aid to Communist Poland "can unfortunately be summed up in only five words—too little and too late."

Kennedy said he did not mean the loan-gift agreement accomplished nothing, or that it was a mistake.

"But I do say that this inadequate agreement, coming at such a late date, after months of haggling, indecision and delay fell so short of our earlier boasts and our earlier promises that it failed to obtain for either our country or the people of Poland the full benefits for the cause of independence which such an agreement might have achieved," he said.

A Polish economic mission came here last February seeking 300 million dollars in aid. It came after President Eisenhower offered last October to help any nation, such as Poland, seeking greater independence from Moscow.

After more than three months of negotiations, there was agreement on a 95-million-dollar aid program. The Poles agreed to take half at that time and half when Congress passed a billion-dollar measure permitting surplus farm goods sales for local currencies abroad. Eisenhower signed that bill Aug. 13.

Aluminum Bowl Date Set Dec. 21

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Aluminum Bowl officials have set Dec. 21 as the date of the second annual football bowl game here.

The contest will decide the NAIA small college national championship. It will be held in Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium.

Officials said yesterday that the CBS network, with 97 affiliated stations, will carry the game. They said plans are being made to ask businessmen throughout Arkansas to contribute the $25,000 needed to finance televising of the event.

The daily number of marriages in the U. S. in June is normally about 45 per cent greater than the daily average for the year.

but I heard them, their crazy yells and gunfire coming closer, every second moving all of it nearer to The Narrows, nearer the black patch on the sod.

I knew who was down there on the prairie then. Sure of it, I was. Not Blanchard. No dead man, either. It was Pete Dorsey, alive; but held in the thin strip between the slope and the river, the stampeding herd coming at him through the night. I was glad it wasn't Blanchard. I wanted to feel sad because it was Dorsey, going to die in a bad way.

A horse and rider broke out of the shadow in The Narrows. I guessed it was Blanchard riding hard, bent low over the horse, pointing for Dorsey. My eyes held to the sight.

Sitting on the ridge, I was on top of it all, out of it. Safe, out of the way. I could feel the death rind under the boiling dust but it couldn't touch me. I didn't think it was wrong to be glad, just a little, that another man was going to die when it could have been me. I thought that and I remembered that Blanchard was down there and if Dorsey died under the herd, Blanchard died, too. If I went down...

The end of it all was there in the basin under my eyes and I was sure. The end before a herd of crazy-running buffaloes. Dorsey's end, Blanchard's too, and mine if I went down. It was laid out for me in black and gray shapes and I couldn't keep it out of my eyes. I knew I could never see it any other way than I saw it now and I'd remember until the day I died and I'd turn it over and over in my mind, the way it was.

But maybe it was already over. The herd was running and there was no stopping it. The Clements had won and we'd lost, me and Blanchard. It didn't seem like Blanchard would want me to die if we'd already lost.

But then it came to me in the clearest, biggest, blackest shape of all, that it didn't matter that we'd lost. I'd already come too far. I had to go farther or all of it was no good, just a little boy building a castle in the mud and then jumping on it, crushing it, losing it. You had to go all the way or it was wasted. Blanchard was down there and he needed me. The dying didn't matter.

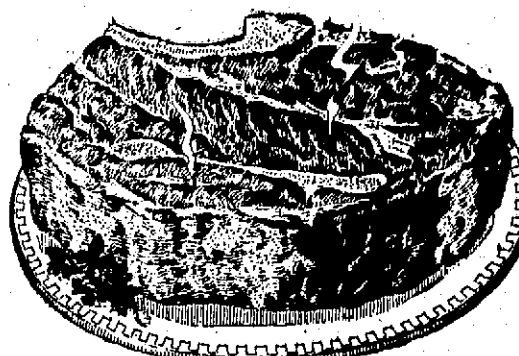

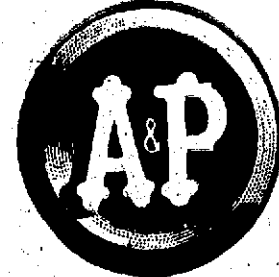

I thought, when would a man like me get a chance to die in a better company?

Syria Weak Spot in Ike's Program

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The soft spot in President Eisenhower's Middle East program shows up in Syria, where pro-Soviet officers have grabbed control of the army.

That Eisenhower program was intended to stop the spread of communism into the Middle East. Eisenhower proposed it in a special message to Congress Jan. 8. Congress approved it March 7 in the form of a resolution which would let him:

Give economic aid and arms to Middle East countries and use American armed forces there to stop Communist aggression if an attacked country asked for such help.

Confronted with this, Communists were not likely to take a chance on direct attack in the Middle East. But they still had an alternative: To try to take over from within by subversion or even military means.

And Eisenhower's program had no direct answer for the question: What does the United States do if the Communists in any one country—or in one country after another—seized power by subversion?

Now the United States and its allies seem puzzled what to do about Syria. It still isn't clear whether the pro-Soviet officers' control of the army has made Syria a Russian satellite.

Eisenhower never pretended his program had all the answers for keeping communism out of the area. But Secretary of State Dulles seemed more optimistic. At least he did one time, and at another he didn't.

On Jan. 7, in an explanation to Congress of Eisenhower's program, Dulles pictured three perils from communism in the Middle East: Outright armed attack, subversion and take-over by allure.

Dulles said the first threat would be met "if need be by the armed forces of the United States." He predicted the other two would be thwarted by increased confidence and anti-Communist vigilance resulting from the shield of U. S. military protection and ready economic aid.

But Syria never accepted any aid under the Eisenhower program. It was getting arms from Russia, and recently signed an agreement with the Soviets to get economic assistance from them.

Thus any confidence the Syrians developed was in Russia, not in the United States.

But what was Dulles' solution if Communists, despite his optimism to the contrary, did get control of a Mideast nation? He had an answer for that too.

The United States, he said, would not invade such a country but would learn to live with it, as the United States gets along with Communist Yugoslavia.

Yesterday the new Syrian army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Atif Bizar, deriding American leadership although speaking kindly of Eisenhower, accused this country of directing an assassination plot against members of the Syrian government.

Bizar was asked at a news conference in Syria if he was a Communist or pro-Soviet. He avoided a direct answer, but said: "Is it forbidden for a person to carry thoughts?"

Syria Blames U. S. for Plot to Kill Chief

By ANGELO NATALE

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's new army chief of staff says "gangsters made in America" plotted to kill him and other Syrian military leaders.

The alleged mass assassination plan, Maj. Gen. Atif Bizar told Western newsmen yesterday, was part of a plot Syria has charged the United States directed against the Syrian government.

"They were to send gangsters to our houses to kill us," Bizar declared. "They were gangsters made in America."

The military chief leveled the charge shortly after Syria instructed its U.N. delegation to inform the Security Council that the United States had conspired to overthrow President Shukri Kuwailat's regime.

Kuwailat, who flew to Egypt after the Syrian army shakeup last week, is in an Alexandria hospital for the announced purpose of getting a medical checkup. A Foreign Ministry source said he is expected to return within a week.

Bizar charged that Howard W. Stone, the U. S. Embassy's second secretary for political affairs, was the mastermind behind the alleged plot. Stone was one of three American diplomats expelled from Syria last week.

Marked for death besides himself, Bizar said, were Dr. Amin Nufuri, new deputy chief of staff, and Col. Abdul Hamid Sarraj, the army's intelligence chief.

"The prime purpose was to kill staff officers who opposed American policy," Bizar said. "They wanted the head of every honest man. We have the evidence."

"Democracy, according to Stone, was to put an end to the honest people of this country. He wanted to make my two children orphans."

CRIPPLED AIRLINER
SHANNON AIRPORT, (AP) Ireland (AP) — A German airliner with 80 Americans aboard ran into engine trouble over the Atlantic today and turned back to make a safe emergency landing here.

The Lufthansa Super G Constellation was 700 miles off the Irish coast—almost halfway across the Atlantic—in a flight from Hamburg to New York when an engine failed. Airline spokesmen said the big airliner was in no serious danger but took no chances and flew back to Shannon on three engines.

Aid Backers to Try to Win More Funds

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thye (R-Minn.) said today foreign aid supporters will try to win approval of a minimum of three billion dollars in new funds from a bitterly divided Senate Appropriations Committee.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate majority leader, said the committee had been informed the total available for the aid program would come to 12 billion dollars, counting in fresh appropriations voted by the House — $2,524,700,000 in new funds and $967,050,000 in reappropriations.

The committee is embroiled in a hot dispute over just how much money is available for military and economic assistance abroad from appropriations in previous years.

Officials of the International Cooperation Administration were called into a new closed hearing to give the committee details on how much uncommitted foreign aid money actually is available.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate majority leader, said the committee had been informed the total available for the aid program would come to 12 billion dollars, counting in fresh appropriations voted by the House — $2,524,700,000 in new funds and $967,050,000 in reappropriations.

Johnson included in his total more than six billions in funds from previous years which still are the foreign aid pipeline. Supporters of the aid program have argued that most of these unspent funds already are committed to pay for items not yet delivered.

He also mentioned as part of the 12-billion-dollar total about 1½ billion dollars which he said is available in farm surplus disposal funds and more than a billion in counterpart funds. These are local currencies of countries which have been receiving aid. Counterpart funds generally can be spent only in the country involved.
